Seaport San Diego revitalizes a key section of the San Diego Bayfront for the next century of San Diego visitors and residents. The vision bolsters access, use, and enjoyment of the waterfront for all. The revitalization of the bayfront is part of a larger vision for the future of San Diego that honors its connection to the water, while expanding access, mobility and sustainability.

- The development includes an observation tower, hotels, shops, and restaurants for a lively commercial anchor.
- This is in conjunction with upgraded commercial fishing facilities, an improved harbor, boat docking, public piers, aquaculture, and water transit – along with a leading-edge aquarium, learning center, and Blue Tech innovation center.
- The entire development is linked by an abundant thread of recreational open space across 16 acres that includes expansive parks, plazas, and walking paths that seamlessly connect the urban environment with the natural beauty of San Diego Bay.
- The introduction of an urban beach and living shoreline will create dynamic, interactive landscapes that promote ecological awareness and community learning.
- An elevated walkway along the water's edge offers a scenic overlook to the wide range of activities and ecological moments.
