HOUSTON, TEXAS

YEAR 2025

SIZE 14 acres

USE A new urban village along Houston's Buffalo Bayou with ample green space that supports public events, dining, and retail offerings.

- + The landscape design embraces a native planting palette and a network of organic pathways shaded by mature live oaks.
- + Streets and paseos prioritize pedestrians with shaded sidewalks, garden rooms, and flexible plazas that connect to nearby trail networks.
- + Boutique shops, locally restaurants, and jewel-box storefronts animate the public realm.
- + Open spaces foster connection among tenants through leisure, commerce, and curated events—from spin classes to happy hours.

At Autry Park, landscape, architecture, and community come together in a dynamic, walkable environment. The 14-acre mixed-use district features luxury residences, Class A office space, and a curated collection of dining and retail, all oriented around a central green that serves as the neighborhood's social heart.
